“For one thousand years, this principle has guided Western civilization. Simply stated, that principle is this: the groom dies for the bride, the strong suffer for the weak, and the highest expression of love is to give one’s life for another. The men aboard the Titanic recognized their duty because they had been raised in a culture that implicitly embraced such notions. Only by returning to these foundations can we ever hope to live in a society in which men will make the self-conscious decision to die so that women and children may live. This is the true legacy of the Titanic.” Douglas Phillips

When those who champion “women and children first” hide behind smooth words instead of “suffering for the weak”... When the strong take advantage of the weak, and then turn them out like so much garbage... When the strong seize the lifeboats and leave the weak drowning in the icy water... it leaves no choice for men of God other than to rise up and oppose them when they discover the truth. Woe to those that do not.

Bob Renaud This is why we did what we did brother. We were not going to sit by and allow the weak to be victimized. I still believe in this doctrine even if my mentor and friend rejected it.

Annette Wolf Powerful stand! Good to know there are men who will take that hard path of confronting and holding accountable those in prominent positions.

Jeff Brower This is so sad. There is obviously much I do not know and perhaps a lot I do not need to know. Matthew 18 require this be taken up by the church and if the offender completely rejects the call for repentance he is to be treated as an outsider. It seems... See More

Jordan Niednagel At this point I believe these posts are only adding to the confusion, and may not be the best way of going about this. We have a man who has publicly repented, and admitted his wrong, which indeed the board of Vision Forum has also concurred (accordin... See More

Jonathan Kayser I may agree with your words, but let me be clear: There is no nobility in calling a man to repentance. It is simply too tragic.

Proceed with the truth. Knock it off with the drama. ... See More
